Torres to OK retiree bonuses bill ASAP

By KIMBERLY B. ESMORES

REPORTER

After about four months of dispute over a bill to give CNMI retirees $1,000 bonuses, the House of Representatives and the Senate finally reached a compromise with House Bill 22-95 passing the Legislature yesterday. Gov. Ralph DLG Torres says he is ready to sign the bill as soon as it reaches his desk.

During a House session yesterday, H.B. 22-95 Senate Substitute 1 gained a unanimous vote in favor of its passage, with 16 members of the House of Representatives voting "yes" and one abstention.

Rep. Celina Babauta (D-Saipan) abstained from voting, stating that because her husband is a retiree, she would indirectly benefit from the bill and feels it's a conflict of interest on her part. However, she stated that she fully supports the bill and its amendments.

In a separate statement from Torres yesterday, he said he currently awaits the bill and will sign it as soon as possible so retirees can finally receive their long awaited bonuses that were first promised them in December 2021.

"I humbly await to sign this bill into law so that our retirees can finally receive their well-deserved bonus. To our retirees, we are one step closer to getting this bonus out to you. Moving forward, please know that I will continue to ensure that you remain a priority," Torres said.

The governor thanked the House of Representatives for passing the bill yesterday as well as the Senate and the Department of Finance for working together to make the amendments that were passed last week.

Kilili says caregivers program now available to NMI veterans' families

Marianas families with a disabled veteran to care for may now apply to receive help—including a monthly stipend—from the U.S. Department of Veterans Affairs, said Delegate Gregorio Kilili C. Sablan (Ind-MP) yesterday.

"This is very good news for Marianas veterans who contacted their congressional office earlier this year after their families were rejected for the VA caregivers program," Sablan said. "Some Marianas veterans were even told they did not live in the United States and so were not eligible, a mistake I immediately raised with Department of Veterans Affairs."

As a result, the department informed Sablan yesterday that the Program of Comprehensive Assistance for Family Caregivers would now be available for families in the Marianas.

"I want to thank everyone at the department who responded to the error of telling Marianas veterans they do not live in the United States," he said.

Resolution for $500 gas voucher passes Legislature

The Senate joint resolution in support of implementing a $500 gas voucher program that will help CNMI residents in buying increasingly expensive gas has passed the House of Representatives and will now move to Gov. Ralph DLG Torres for his approval.

During a House session yesterday, 16 members of the House of Representatives voted "yes" to passing Senate Joint Resolution 22-08 in support of a $500 gas voucher program, with one abstention.

That doesn't mean that you can now expect to get a $500 voucher that you can use to buy fuel. A joint resolution is essentially a recommendation or request from the Senate and the House to the governor. The governor has the power to grant this request, in this case authorizing the allocation of federal American Rescue Plan Act funds to subsidize these vouchers.

OFFICE OF THE GOVERNOR

Gov. Ralph DLG Torres sign the proclamation that designates May 2-6, 2022 as Public Service Recognition Week.

Governor says the House never invited him to testify

By KIMBERLY B. ESMORES
kimberly_esmores@saipantribune.com
REPORTER

Gov. Ralph DLG Torres claims that the House of Representatives never once invited him in his personal capacity to testify against the allegations against him.

In a brief statement from Torres last Tuesday, he said he wants to clarify for the community that if the House of Representatives had invited him in his personal capacity to answer questions—and not as governor—then he would've gladly done so. However, that was not the case and now, the situation has gotten to the point of impeachment and even criminal charges.

"They never once invited me to come. I've said it numerous times: 'Invite me to come, and I'll come, and I'll testify. You want me to be under oath, I'll do it.' But obviously they chose to do it their own way. Now it is what it is. But I just wanted people in the community to know that I've always said that I'm willing to come in and testify and have a discussion and answer your questions," he said.

Torres explained that had the House of Representatives, specifically the House's Judiciary and Governmental Operations Committee, invited him instead of issuing a subpoena for the governor, he would have gladly come in and answered any, if not all, their questions.

"Just to make it clear: I've said it in the past and I'll say it again—if the House were to invite me to come, I would have gladly come and done that. I've said it numerous times. To subpoena the governor, you're not putting...the position of governor [in a spot] where at any time the Legislature can just come arbitrarily and just subpoena the governor and the Senate as well. I stand by that. This was something that I could've easily gone in, take the oath, and answer their questions. But they chose not to, they chose the other way, which was to subpoena the governor," Torres said.

However, Torres remains optimistic and says he will continue to represent those who believe in his leadership and those who voted him into his position.

As for the impeachment trial on May 13, Torres said he will gladly be there if his legal counsel advises him to.

"I'll leave it to my legal counsel. If my legal counsel suggests that I should be present then I will be," he said.

Saipan student shines in ASCE tilt

Several Trine University students, including one from Saipan, recently received awards from the American Society of Civil Engineers during a competition last April 7-9 that saw the participation of almost 200 civil engineering students from 11 colleges and universities.

Thaiph Austria from Saipan, together with four other students, placed third place in the inaugural ASCE Indiana-Kentucky Student Symposium in a game of concrete cornhole. The other students on the team were Alex Layman of Ney, Ohio, Mason Fritch of Butler, Indiana, and Austin Zank.

The University of Notre Dame was the overall winner of the competition, which was hosted by Trine University in Indiana. Trine ranked second overall in the competition, topping Purdue University, Rose-Hulman Institute of Technology, the University of Evansville, and the University of Kentucky.

Trine's student ASCE chapter has been attending ASCE symposia for over 20 years, but this was the first since the ASCE national organization realigned regions last year.

"Students had no idea what to anticipate because this was the first in-person symposium they had been able to attend since before COVID. However, we received a lot of positive responses. Students had a great time competing in contests and meeting new people," said Erin Haase, a Trine civil engineering major from Napoleon, Ohio, one of the event co-chairs.

Three Trine teams were able to take first-place awards in the ASCE Sustainable Solutions, Quiz Bowl, and Mechanically Stabilized Earth Wall portions of the event.

The symposium also included competitions in Steel Bridge Aesthetics, Technical Paper, Concrete Canoe and Surveying. (Saipan Tribune)

Missing person: Juan K. Igisomar

Igisomar

The CNMI Department of Public Safety has launched a search for a 50-year-old man identified as Juan K. Igisomar, who has been reported missing since Tuesday, April 26.

A DPS news yesterday said that a family member of the victim had told police that they have not seen their uncle for about two weeks. Based on the information gathered, Igisomar was last seen on Sunday, April 24, 2022, by the former IT&E building in Chalan Lau Lau.

The DPS statement said that Igisomar was last seen wearing a pair of khaki long pants, was shirtless, with gray colored hair and facial hair. Igisomar is approximately 5'8" and around 220 lbs. Family members also mentioned to police that Igisomar has a disability and is frequently seen walking along Middle Road in Chalan Lau Lau, with no shirt.

Igisomar's disappearance was reported to police last April 26, 2022, at about 2:24pm.

Separately, in a Facebook post Tuesday evening, it said that Igisomar has not returned to his home in Chalan Laulau that day.

In Ilóurisa Kai Ka (Jezebel Kaipat Kapileo)'s initial Facebook post, which has almost 300 shares, she wrote "Good day, family & friends in the Marianas (Saipan to be specific). A family member of ours, John Kaipat Igisomar, (my uncle-mother's brother) has not been seen at his home in Chalan Laulau for awhile now. He is known to frequently get around the island by walking and is usually at Chalan Kiya, Beach Road, Garapan area and Middle Road. It is unusual for Uncle John to not return home after a day of being out. This is so unlike him, therefore the family and I are worried."

In a Facebook messenger interview, Ilóurisa said, "We are doing our efforts to find him and DPS has been informed as well. We are hoping he is just at a friend's or relative's home. Any help is greatly appreciated."

Department of Public Lands Secretary and former senator Sixto Igisomar also said on his Facebook page, "Our Saipan family, I know John may have visited your homes, so please let us know if you've seen him at least the past days or over the weekend. We are having mixed days of when he was last seen, and so we are worried. Help, please, and I hope he is just spending time with other family members or friends. God bless and thank you."

DPS said that police have contacted several individuals in the community in search of new information about Igisomar. The police are seeking the public's assistance in locating the missing individual. If you have information on any recent sightings or if anyone you know has any information on the whereabouts of Igisomar, call 911, 1 (670) 234-0911 or 1 (670)-664-9001. (Leigh Gases)

Ex-working student at UOG rises to the FSM presidency

If there is one piece of advice former Federated States of Micronesia president Emanuel “Manny” Mori could impart to the current students of his alma mater, it would be to take up the responsibility of serving the island they are from.

Mori, who served as FSM president from 2007 to 2015, said the knowledge he gained from his time as a student at the University of Guam helped boost his potential to give back to his community.

“UOG played a very critical role in the education and development of [the FSM]—from providing health services to creating more jobs,” Mori said. “When people from our islands earn our college degree, whether from UOG or elsewhere, we have a responsibility to return and help build the nation that raised us.”

This includes the environmental challenges islands face, which was a focal point during Mori’s presidency.

Memories of student life

Mori attended UOG from 1969 to 1973 and graduated with a bachelor’s in business management. He was active in campus activities and became the first student from the FSM to be elected to the Student Body Association. As senator, he was responsible for coordinating student life activities, from dances to movie nights to the annual UOG Charter Day.

“There might be different Charter Day activities now, but back then the students loved having picnics. We also had games like climbing coconut trees and husking coconuts. Most of the CHamorus on campus spoke their language, too,” he said.

As a newcomer to Guam, Mori learned a lot about the island from friends he made while staying in the dormitories. Two friends in particular—longtime Guam educator Salvador Avilla and George Chargualaf—often took him out on adventures around the island to experience the community.

To help pay his tuition, he worked as a janitor in the dorms and advanced to supervisory status through the work-study program. The overall experience was a ton of fun, he said.

In academics, Mori said his education from Xavier High School in Chuuk prepared him for the first two years of college classes. The lessons started to become a little difficult afterwards, he admitted.

“I was struggling with finance and accounting because I couldn’t understand it. It wasn’t until I did an internship at a bank that it started to click for me,” he said. “Public speaking was also a difficult one. I wasn’t very good at it. But I enjoyed the class because it was great to see people make enormous improvements.”

Pivotal career moment

Funnily enough, the two types of classes he struggled with ended up being the precursors for his decorated career in banking and politics.

Upon graduating from UOG, he went on to work for the banking industry for 25 years, starting in Guam and Saipan before ultimately moving back home to hold leadership positions in public and private banks.

Then came the call for public service. Mori found himself serving in FSM Congress, which later led him down the path to presidency.

Protecting natural resources, environment

As president, Mori brought environmental concerns and impacts in the four island states to the forefront of global discussions.

During the 62nd Session of the United Nations General Assembly in 2007, Mori pleaded with world leaders to take action in reversing the global trends of pollution to counter climate change. He reiterated this message at the 64th U.N. General Assembly in 2009, noting visible changes in sea-level rise and intensity of storms, and again in 2014 at the 69th General Assembly, when he advocated for immediate action on climate pollutants and voiced support for the U.N.’s proposed and now adopted global Sustainable Development Goals.

“Much of my discussions with the United Nations involved climate change and the concern for our environment,” he said. “The impacts of sea-level rise were visible in some of our surrounding islands. They were eroding. Houses were disappearing.”

His speeches focused on the impacts that Micronesia had already witnessed, such as damage to subsistence agriculture and fishing and threats to endemic marine and terrestrial species.

“The environmental concerns also affected our health,” he said. “Non-communicable diseases were intensifying. We needed to consider how we can improve food security.”

Another pressing issue he raised with the U.N. was the potential of oil seeping from World War II-era ships lying at the bottom of the Chuuk Lagoon. A portion of this ship graveyard is a popular diving destination for tourism, but Mori said he had expressed concern to both the United States and Japan governments about the possibility of oil pollution from cracked tanks over time. This is a matter that is still being looked at today, he said.

Mori’s efforts to bring these issues to a bigger table has since advanced discussions on solutions to protect FSM’s natural and cultural resources. His presidency was a catalyst to the FSM becoming the first country in Oceania to ratify the UNESCO Underwater Cultural Heritage Convention in 2018, which will help protect and manage the shipwreck sites as well as other underwater artifacts.

The FSM’s signing of the convention has also contributed to Japan, the United States, and Australia starting to assist with oil pollution mitigation in FSM.

In 2009, UOG conferred unto Mori an honorary Doctorate of Humane Letters Degree to recognize his work as a distinguished public servant in the FSM and Micronesian region. He gave the commencement speech that year, staying true to his cause as he challenged students to take on climate change as the priority of their generation. (UOG) ber who abstained, informed House Speaker Edmund Villagomez (Ind-Saipan) that he would like to abstain from voting due to a conflict of interest that he did not disclose.

RESOLUTION

During discussion on the resolution, Rep. Tina Sablan (D-Saipan) said she fully supports the bill as it would alleviate the hardship many face due to the continuous increase in fuel prices.

“I fully support this joint resolution. I would like to thank our colleagues in the Senate, specifically Sen. Edith DeLeon Guerrero (D-Saipan), for championing this form of relief. We all know and have felt the pain ourselves of rising gas prices in the CNMI and this would really alleviate some of that pain at the gas pump,” she said.

Joint Resolution 22-08 asks Torres and Finance Secretary David Atalig to provide financial assistance to meet the increased demand of fuel costs in the CNMI by implementing a $500 fuel voucher program.

“The residents of the Commonwealth are also in need of government financial assistance to ease the burden of the high fuel costs on all three islands. The 22nd Northern Marianas Commonwealth Legislature hereby requests the governor and secretary of Finance to implement a $500 gas voucher program in the Commonwealth,” the resolution states.

The resolution further states that the CNMI needs this assistance because of the many hardships the community has faced in the last few years.

“This legislative body recognizes that there are many hardships in which the people of the Commonwealth of the Northern Mariana Islands are faced with, and additionally, the citizens have endured an abundance of physical, emotional, and financial constraints as a result of the evolving global pandemic that is associated with the COVID-19 virus; and in addition to the various hardships imposed by economic turmoil caused by the global pandemic, the NMI residents face substantial increases in fuel prices,” the resolution states.

According to Saipan Tribune archives, local oil companies increased their prices earlier this month by 20 cents with regular fuel now $5.96 for a gallon from $5.76. Supreme fuel also went up from $6.21 per gallon to $6.41 while diesel is now $6.78 from $6.48.

retirees, I am thankful to the House of Representatives for making the right choice in deciding to collaborate with the members of the Senate so that we can offer this much needed assistance to our retirees. I would also like to personally thank the House minority [bloc] for always doing the right thing, for their untiring consideration for our retirees throughout these past months. I also express my sincere appreciation to the members of the Senate who have supported a bonus for our retirees since the beginning, and who have done all they can to prioritize the retirees’ needs,” he said.

“The most important amendment was made in the Senate, which is what made this final bill possible. Without their diligent work in doing what is right for our retirees and our government, we wouldn’t have gotten to this point, where we can finally give our retirees their long-awaited bonus,” he added.

According to the author of the bill, Rep. Donald Manglona (Ind-Rota), he is grateful that a resolution was finally reached after over four months.

“I’m very grateful to the Senate for looking at the appropriations we’ve made, the allocations we’ve made, and their inputs as to where funds should be allocated from,” he said.

Manglona added that the bill is a product of both the House and the Senate.

“It’s been a long time coming, but I’m happy that this is a product that both the House and the Senate agreed upon and came to a consensus on. We thank the retirees for their patience. I know, it’s been mentioned since December but it’s all a matter of ensuring that the transparency and accountability is there and ensuring that local funds are taken out from the right account in order to address the retiree bonuses,” Manglona said.

In a brief statement from Rep. Tina Sablan (D-Saipan) during the discussion of the bill, she said she appreciates her colleagues from the House for spearheading the bill, and she also wanted to extend her appreciation to the Senate for coming to a compromise that has finally moved the bill along.

“I just wanted to express my appreciation to our colleagues in the House, especially vice speaker B. J. Attao and [House Ways and Means Committee] chairman Donald Manglona for the leadership that has been shown in supporting the retirees. I also appreciate our Senate colleagues and the Department of Finance for at last bringing to the table the information that we’ve been asking for, for identifying alternate sources of funding. I do wish we could have come to this table together sooner, but it is what it is. I’m glad that we’re all at the same table now,” she said.

The other 14 members shared the same sentiment as Sablan and voted in favor of passing the bill.

Meanwhile, the Republican Party of the CNMI board directors and the retirees committee invited CNMI retirees to a meet-and-greet with Torres and lieutenant governor candidate Vinnie F. Sablan yesterday evening.

The Republican party senatorial, mayoral, and legislative candidates from all precincts were also present.

‘Compassionate release request is not for convenience’

By LEIGH GASES
leigh_gases@saipantribune.com
CORRESPONDENT

Incarcerated pregnant inmate Vickilyn Manglona Teregeyo says she is not asking for compassionate release for her own convenience.

In a response submitted by her lawyer, Richard Miller, he said Tuesday that Teregeyo is making the request in the best interest of the daughter she is about to give birth to, as well as her own health and safety in the period immediately preceding and following labor.

“She is a mother who doesn’t want to be forcibly separated from her new daughter within hours of giving birth. Reincarceration after her release from the hospital would entirely separate her and her daughter during the first crucial weeks of the newborn’s life. That cannot be a healthy thing psychologically for the mother and developmentally for the child,” said Miller.

The U.S. Attorney’s Office, which had opposed Teregeyo’s request for compassionate release and modification of her sentence, had alleged that methamphetamine was found inside Teregeyo’s jail cell on March 27, 2022. Miller asks that the government present “this evidence to the defense as soon as possible.”

In relation to Teregeyo’s 2018 case in Guam, Millers says that “the circumstances today are markedly different. ... There, Vickilyn was granted pretrial release without restrictive conditions.” Now however, Teregeyo is already sentenced.

Miller added that if the U.S. District Court for the NMI releases her from the Department of Corrections, “she will go straight into home detention with electronic home monitoring. Her movements will be closely monitored within a house that the Probation Office has already inspected, and her access to others will be severely restricted. If Vickilyn were in [Federal] Bureau of Prisons custody, she would have recourse to programs that would allow her and the baby to be in contact. Instead she’s caught in a Catch-22, where neither the Bureau nor the U.S. Marshal nor DOC has authority to assist. The extent to which she falls through the cracks of the system were not apparent at the time she was sentenced last month. They are woefully visible now.”

Tina, Leila thank ‘superstar’ supporters

Rep. Christina “Tina” Sablan (D-Saipan) and Rep. Leila Fleming Staffler (D-Saipan), who are running for governor and lieutenant governor under the Democratic Party banner this November, want to thank the scores of donors, supporters and volunteers who made recent campaign events a success. The two called the two back-to-back events “inspiring and humbling.”

“These events don’t just happen on their own. A lot of experience, dedication and hard work came together to make our ‘Livestock Fundraiser’ and the Kababayan gathering so successful,” said Sablan. “There are so many people to thank, starting with Lawrence Camacho, who was chairman of the Livestock Fundraiser.”

Staffler noted that others who donated prizes of live animals for the raffle included her uncle, Thomas Fleming from Tinian; Manuela Manlulu, her aunt; Franklin Babauta, Martin Castro, Joseph Roberto; Danny Quitugua; and Ben Duenas. She also thanked musicians Larry and Kui Lee.

“They’re all superstars in our view,” said Sablan.

families, were also heroes of the day, added Staffler.

Both candidates, who serve together in the Commonwealth House of Representatives, also thanked the organizers and supporters of the Kababayan event. “The organizers, Regina Duenas and Brando De Belen, welcomed us with open arms, and we had a chance to meet and speak personally with the many people who were there in attendance,” said sablan.

The support they received will help their campaign reach even more people in the coming weeks, Staffler said. (PR)

NMC adds more NCLEX passers

Northern Marianas College nursing program alumni Merly-Ann Fernandez and Carl Pagcaliwagan recently joined the list of students who have passed the challenging National Council Licensure Examination for Registered Nurses or NCLEX-RN. Fernandez and Pagcaliwagan graduated from NMC in 2021.

The NCLEX-RN exam is the exam nursing graduates in the CNMI have to pass in order to be able to practice nursing. The exam tests the knowledge, skills, and abilities of nursing graduates in order to certify that they are equipped with the capability to apply entry level nursing practices correctly.

“It’s great to see more and more NMC nursing graduates pass the challenging NCLEX-RN,” NMC president Galvin Deleon Guerrero said. “I congratulate Merly-Ann and Carl on this accomplishment.”

NMC Nursing Department chair Rosa Aldan also congratulated the two on their achievements.

“Merly-Ann and Carl have bright futures in the nursing field and we expect to see great things from them as their educational and professional journeys continue,” Aldan said.

Fernandez said that one contributing factor to her passing the test was being able to work at the Commonwealth Healthcare Corp.’s surgical ward as a graduate nurse.

“I was able to experience hands-on nursing care under the supervision of the charge nurse,” Fernandez said. “This experience allowed me to utilize my critical thinking and nursing instincts.”

Her advice for students planning to take the NCLEX is to study any time you can, as well as use all the available resources.

Pagcaliwagan said that he decided to become a nurse because it was one of the science-based courses available on-island that piqued his interest.

“Over time as I got through my general courses, the topics started narrowing down to more science specific classes,” Pagcaliwagan said. “Noticing how I enjoyed those classes, and the eventual topics of the Nursing Program itself, I felt like Nursing was something I could see myself doing.”

For students who plan to take NCLEX, Pagcaliwagan says to take steps to prevent mental burnout.

“Create a routine that works for you and keep it consistent,” Pagcaliwagan said. “Take care of yourself first mentally and physically. Don’t

Don't wait to seek COVID medications

“Widely available.” That's how Dr. Ruth Lynfield, Minnesota's respected state epidemiologist, sums up the current supply of antiviral treatments—in other words, pills or outpatient therapies prescribed soon after a positive test for those at risk for severe COVID-19.

Good news has too often been a rare commodity during this long, exhausting pandemic. But one medication in particular—dubbed Paxlovid—delivers a welcome double shot of that. It's plentiful and potent, being close to 90% effective against hospitalization and death when taken during a limited window of time.

But Paxlovid and other antivirals don't do anyone any good if they're gathering dust on a clinic or pharmacy shelf. While these may have been in short supply temporarily after they were cleared for use in the United States—Paxlovid's emergency authorization for those ages 12 and up came in December, for example—there's now a healthy inventory of them here and elsewhere.

Other treatments include remdesivir, bebtelovimab and molnupiravir. The first two are given as outpatient infusions; the last is taken by mouth. The age range and other eligibility criteria vary from treatment to treatment. The issue now is ensuring that Minnesotans are not only aware of these options, but understand who should use them and when.

The list of conditions that elevate risk for severe COVID-19 is likely more expansive than many realize. It includes older adults, particularly those 65 and over. Also on the list: Type 1 and 2 diabetes, chronic lung conditions such as asthma, as well as heart, liver and kidney disease. Mood disorders, including depression and schizophrenia spectrum disorders, are risk factors as well. A full list is available from the U.S. Centers for Disease Control and Prevention at tinyurl.com/Risk042522, but when in doubt ask a doctor or pharmacist.

Antivirals need to be given as soon as possible, which is why prompt COVID-19 testing remains critical. These treatments prevent people from becoming severely ill and needing hospitalization. Thus, patients need to take them before that level of care is required. For example, Paxlovid must be prescribed for use “within 5 days of symptom onset,” according to the U.S. Food and Drug Administration.

There's urgency to understanding all this. On Friday, the Star Tribune reported that COVID-19 cases have exceeded the state's high-risk threshold again, even with many infections likely going unreported due to the use of at-home rapid tests.

The Minnesota Department of Health (MDH) has excellent online resources (tinyurl.com/MNHealthCovidmeds) for those wanting more information about antiviral treatments and where to find them.

Additional points that are helpful to understand:

Vaccinated people with breakthrough COVID-19 infections are eligible for antiviral treatments, providing they have risk factors and meet other prescribing guidelines. So-

Russia is causing bloodshed in Myanmar, too

My heart breaks as I watch Russian planes bombing civilian homes, displacing millions of refugees and committing crimes against humanity in Ukraine. Four thousand miles away from Ukraine, in my home country of Myanmar (also known as Burma), Russia has been complicit for decades in the violence of the Burmese military against its own citizens.

The military's violent campaign reached new levels in February 2021, when it staged a bloody attempted coup against the democratically elected government. Since then, the Myanmar military—equipped with deadly weapons from Russia—has tortured and killed thousands of civilians, especially the country's ethnic and religious minorities. One of the more shocking cases occurred on Christmas Eve, when more than 35 ethnic Karenni civilians were burned alive by the military.

These horrific events are not unprecedented. My aunt and uncle were among the Burmese military's victims in the late 1970s. My aunt was gang-raped and tortured in front of my uncle. My uncle's skin was sliced and rubbed with salt and chili. I was forced to leave my beautiful village to escape the state-sponsored violence on January 28, 1995. That was the last time I saw my home.

Sadly, the military has faced no significant consequences for its crimes, which continue to this day, including genocide against the Rohingya people and other ethnic and religious minorities. Just as the failure to stand up to Russian President Vladimir Putin's invasion of Crimea helped lead to the crisis in Ukraine, the failure to hold the military in Myanmar accountable has emboldened it to escalate violence against the nation's people.

Military hardware is displayed during a parade to celebrate Myanmar's 77th Armed Forces Day in Naypyidaw, on March 27, 2022.

Since the coup, the Myanmar military has been conducting airstrikes almost every day, especially at night when people are sleeping, to maximize the number of deaths and injuries. Nearly 900,000 people have been forced from their homes. The military has deliberately targeted health care facilities and places where people have fled to for protection. And it is using Russian weapons to do it.

Thomas Andrews, U.N. Special Rapporteur on the situation of human rights in Myanmar, recently documented the wide range of weapons Russia is selling to the military, including a shipload of military vehicles in January and two more SU-30 fighter jets in March. These are the same fighter jets Russia is using in Ukraine.

In exchange, the State Administration Council set up by the

The new American way of getting everything wrong

Compassion is so, so important if civilization is to rise to the heights most of us wish for, but compassion without wisdom can produce Karl Marx communism. "From each according to his ability, to each according to his needs," the historical figure said by way of summation in 1875, and what we actually have seen in this fraudulent, dehumanizing economic system is "from each according to tyrannical orders and to each according to whether there is any food available."

If that's an understatement, not taking account of millions of deaths, I apologize, but many recent, progressive, mostly Democratic miscalculations have likewise done less to produce a brave, new world than to pulverize the innocent. Consider free, often unneeded, $1,400 stimulus checks passed out nationally to help individuals and to excite a COVID-recovering economy when the chief consequence instead has been to increase demand when supply is diminished. Even President Joe Biden has agreed that this particular utopian dream evolved into an inflationary nightmare.

military in Myanmar is one of the few entities around the world to endorse Putin's unprovoked invasion of Ukraine.

U.S. Secretary of State Antony Blinken has taken a historic step in March by officially declaring that the Myanmar military has committed acts of genocide against the Rohingya people. But this long overdue decision did not include any practical action in response to this genocide.

The U.S. government must take tangible action to hold the military in Myanmar accountable. Passing the BURMA Act, introduced in Congress last year, would ensure accountability for the junta and justice for its victims, as well as provide direct support to the nation's people. The Biden administration must also support The Gambia's case before the International Court of Justice, arguing that Myanmar violated the Genocide Convention.

The global community has taken swift action to sanction Putin and the cronies who support him, showing what can be done when political will is united against injustice. Just a fraction of the action taken against Russia and in support of Ukraine would be transformational in our struggle for democracy and human rights in Myanmar, and at much less economic cost to the United States.

I have lost half of my immediate family members to the military in Myanmar. President Joe Biden and the U.S. Congress can do much more to stop the flow of money and arms to the military in Myanmar. Every day that they fail to act, more mothers and fathers, more sisters and brothers will die at the hands of the military.

cial media has sowed confusion about this.

There are multiple pathways to access antiviral treatments. Some pharmacies with on-site urgent care clinics have joined the federal "Test to Treat" program, which provides testing and prescriptions for antiviral pills. But that is not the only way to access antivirals. Regular medical providers can also prescribe them and help find a pharmacy to fill the prescription if it's not in stock locally.

A mild case of COVID-19 can still turn severe. If you're at elevated risk, seek out antivirals even if you don't feel that sick initially.

A "key message" right now is having a plan in place in case you're infected, said Dr. Sarah Lim, an MDH medical specialist. Understand if you're at high risk, and then know what to do if symptoms develop, she said, because the timeframe for antivirals to work is so tight.

The pandemic continues to wax and wane. Vaccines remain the most powerful weapon against the virus, but medicine's war chest against it has expanded and is well-stocked. Make good use of it or help someone else do so.

Democratic House Speaker Nancy Pelosi, as a living example of intellectual imbalance, profound falls and long-term governmental limping, wants 16-year-olds to be allowed to vote nationally, maybe an ego boost for the unqualified as well as an electoral boost for leftists. Imagination invites all kinds of possibilities, such as more support for a nationally mandated $15-an-hour minimum wage helping teenagers that would likely result in 1 million people losing their jobs, for starters. Each business is different (some with great profits, some with next to no profits), just as each state is its own thing (some would suffer under such a law) and workers come from different circumstances (some the second or third wage earner in a household and some maybe likely to get a quick promotion).

Transgender and gay folks are more and more accepted in modern society, and that's a good: less bullying, less cruelty, more open-minded courtesy. But biological men are superior athletes on average to biological women, and it is not OK when one is especially talented and, as a transgender woman, gets in contests with fiercely competitive, hard-working, devoted biological women and cheats them out of victories they deserve. It is putting self before fair play and showing contempt for the sex with which the person now identifies.

One of the most outlandish mishaps during our engagement with the pandemic was keeping schools closed for too long. The point was to save students from COVID infection when we knew that was not much of a threat especially for the younger students and that they would also likely be quick to recover. Experts say they could suffer psychologically and intellectually for years, maybe for the rest of their lives. Thanks, teachers unions.

Climate change is a real problem that we are going to be less

April is National Poetry Month

The following was in the Saipan Tribune on April 30, 2018. It seems I was focused on William Shakespeare and obsessed with POTUS 45 in the last week of that month. Previously published in the Saipan Tribune: On April 23 of that year, W.S. Sonnet 116, my parody, I Don't Accept Marriage of Truth; W.S. Sonnet 130, my parody, My Tax Returns Will Never See. On April 24 there was 'A trilogy of original Trump Twitter Tales: 1. Deconstructing Drumpf's Delusions of Grandeur, 2. Trump Tweet Tales, Some Tones and Poems, 3. Congressional Movement or Lack Thereof. On April 26, a trilogy and an acrostic: 1. Impeachment or Resignation 2. Put in Trust...Trump a Bust!, 3. The Odium of Trump at the Podium (more loathing, lies, and insults to despise); and 4. an acrostic for U.S. Sen. Elizabeth Warren who told U.S. Sen. Mitch McConnell when he said "Yield the floor": "I have no intention of yielding," McConnell said (and my title): Nevertheless She Persisted. Finally I ended the month on April 30 with: Double Vision Derision, Shakespeare's original Sonnet 29 and two parodies of it:

Sonnet 29 by William Shakespeare

When in disgrace with fortune and men's eyes
I all alone beweep my outcast state
And trouble deaf heav'n with my bootless cries,
And look upon myself, and curse my fate,
Wishing me like to some more rich in hope,
Featured like him with friends possessed,
Desiring this man's art, and that man's scope,
With what I most enjoy contented least;
Yet in these thoughts myself almost despising,
Haply I think on thee, and then my state,
Like to the lark at break of day arising
From sullen earth, sings hymns at heaven's gate.
For thy sweet love remembered such wealth brings
That then I scorn to change my state with kings.

When in Disgrace With Fake News...

(A parody of W. Shakespeare's Sonnet 29) capable of handling because of disruption of our fossil fuel production here at home. That handy source will be needed to enable us to have the money necessary for improved technology and decent living conditions with less dependence on untrustworthy international connivers taking advantage of our stupidities.

We ought to keep in mind that we were not affording adequate medical care for veterans until we started having private hospitals and health care providers do more. Socialist Sen. Bernie Sanders was initially furious.

The Biden administration plans to reduce the overweight student loan burden from imprudent students who knew what they were doing when they took the money to often attend schools with unbelievably high tuition as well as nice reputations. Those paying them off through taxes will include responsible students who did not receive loans and went to less expensive, less prestigious schools that they could afford if they also worked at tough jobs at the same time. It can be more complicated than that, but it's not right.

The denied progressive formula: From each according to politics and ideological misconceptions, and to each according to what's dishonorable.

I grow bald and round in size and tell many more lies too blind with presidential power to ascertain my fate.
Wishing only for more golf games and riches I hope to use my smarts, the 'stable genius' that only I possess conspiring with V. Putin and Russian oligarchs scope what I enjoy most is being out on my own golf course.
Despite my being so smart there are some still despising instinctively I think of me and my Secretary of State with the price of Middle East oil per barrel then rising from Saudi Arabia up to the Northern Arctic Gates liquid largesse for me increasing my wealth and bling that then I know I am "believe me" an American king.

My Presidency in Disgrace

(A parody of W. Shakespeare's Sonnet 29)

My presidency in disgrace in the nation's eyes
I all alone tweet my confused state and trouble the generals with baby boy cries so sad I'm not Making America Great.
Wish I was like that man from a place called Hope articulate like him, a policy wonk and computer nerd desirous of his ability to speak and cope instead I belittle and insult others with every word.
Yet in these thoughts filled with self loathing
I think of money and how much I'm making and obstinately fold my arms inside my clothing continuing bombastic demagoguery and faking.
For bling and bucks remembered on this occasion dispel thoughts of going to prison for tax evasion.

TAMUNING, Guam—Atkins Kroll Inc., an Inchcape Company, announced yesterday its acquisition of Avis Rent a Car, Budget Rent a Car, and Payless Rent a Car across six islands in Micronesia from Premiere Alliance Corp. This acquisition is part of Atkins Kroll's Accelerate Strategy designed to maximize significant opportunities as the industry navigates unique changes. This is the company's second recent acquisition since purchasing the commercial vehicle and heavy equipment dealership Morrico Equipment in December 2021.

"The acquisition of these three iconic rental car brands is a milestone for Atkins Kroll as it marks a major step forward in our strategy by considerably strengthening our position in the region, expanding our car rental footprint and running multi-branded companies will help to enhance the underlying value of Atkins Kroll, as well as providing exciting opportunities for our partners and employees," said Alex Hammett, Inchcape managing director for Asia Developing Markets.

Premiere Alliance Corp. has multiple Avis, Budget, and Payless Rent a Car locations in Micronesia including Guam, Saipan, Tinian, Rota, Pohnpei, and the Republic of Palau, all of which include airport kiosks.

"Premiere Alliance Corp. has served our islands for 25 years," said company president Cathy Mateo. "I am very thankful to our employees who were integral to the success of our operations. I am also grateful to the many customers we've had the privilege to serve. Atkins Kroll is a great organization, and I am confident they'll take great care of our people and the brands."

Crowd celebrates Earth Day, backs Taiwan's inclusion in WHO

More than 250 people showed up in an Ypao beach cleanup event organized by Taipei Economic and Cultural Office in Guam and Guam Visitors Bureau last April 23, 2022 to celebrate Earth Day and support Taiwan's voice and presence in the 75th World Health Assembly, the annual meeting of the World Health Organization, which will be held on May 22 to 28, 2022.

Taiwan has donated many personal protection equipment to Guam during the COVID-19 pandemic. Taiwan recently also donated a remote telecare platform to the Guam Memorial Hospital, which would help Guam residents receive healthcare at home in the near future.

These facts demonstrate that Taiwan could help more if Taiwan participated in the WHO's network, said Paul Chen, the director general of TECO, in his welcome remarks last Saturday.

He expressed appreciation that so many people came to celebrate Earth Day together and support Taiwan's inclusion in WHO.

Over the last two years of the pandemic, Taiwan has demonstrated that it is willing and able to participate in the global effort to solve many medical and public health issues. Unfortunately, Taiwan has never been included in the WHO's mechanism since 2017. Even in November 2020, while national representatives from around the globe were gathering in Geneva, Switzerland for the WHA and COVID-19 issues dominated the meeting, Taiwan, a country well known for its best-in-class result of COVID response at that time, was not invited to join at all.

Continuing to exclude Taiwan from the WHO is hurting global health. To extend the efforts from last year's #Let-TaiwanHelp beach cleanup, TECO and GVB jointly hosted a beach cleanup again this year to raise awareness of the exclusion of Taiwan's valuable input from the WHO. The event was also sponsored by Taiwanese companies in Guam, including First Commercial Bank and Chung Kuo Insurance Co., as one of Chung Kuo Insurance's 50th anniversary celebrations.

Sen. Tina Muña Barnes, who is the vice speaker of the 36th Guam Legislature, and her team joined the cleanup. She recognized that the Taiwanese community has been helping the island of Guam. All the medical support and educational support that Taiwan has provided to Guam have made Taiwan a special place to Guam. The Legislature is therefore processing a resolution relative to supporting Taiwan's participation in the WHO's 75th WHA this year.

Sen. Amanda Shelton was there as well. She thanked Taiwan for being a great community partner to coordinate the event. She also emphasized that, in addition to celebrating Earth Day, it's also the National Volunteer Week. So, she thanked all participants for taking their time out of Saturday morning to help the cleanup.

People from different parts of the island participated in the cleanup at Ypao Beach. "Our Chamorro brothers and sisters, Filipinos, Koreans, Japanese, Taiwanese, Palauans, Thai, and Vietnamese worked together to maintain Guam's beautification. While Guam is striving to reopen and recover after the pandemic, TECO is glad that the cleanup event brought our local residents and foreign visitors a clean and beautiful beach to enjoy," said a TECO news release. House committee OKs psychology interjurisdictional compact, network program

The CNMI House of Representatives Health and Welfare Committee has approved two House bills to expand access to mental health care and to establish a new, integrated health network program within the Commonwealth Health-care Corp.

House Bill 22-80 brings the CNMI one step closer to joining the Psychology Interjurisdictional Compact, or PsyPact, an interstate compact designed to facilitate the practice of telepsychology and the temporary in-person, face-to-face practice of psychology across state boundaries. The bill would expand CNMI residents' access to mental health care, including specialized services not currently available in the Marianas. The report and bill was due to be voted on at yesterday's House session.

The committee also approved a substitute bill for House Bill 22-77 to establish a health network program within CHCC and provide for the orderly transition of medical referral services and administration to CHCC.

Committee chair Rep. Christina Sablan (D-Saipan) said the substitute bill includes amendments that reflect recommendations received during an extensive public comment period and multiple public hearings conducted on Saipan, Tinian, and Rota last summer.

She said the committee received comments from CHCC, including the CEO and the directors of the health centers on Tinian and Rota, medical referral services leadership and staff, the Office of the Attorney General, the Department of Finance, the special assistant for Administration, the mayors of Tinian and Rota, and members of the public. We also reviewed reports on the medical referral program provided by CHCC and the Office of the Public Auditor.

"In addition to providing for an orderly transition of medical referral to CHCC, the substitute bill establishes a health network program that is an integrated part of CHCC, and that facilitates and expands residents' access to CHCC's network of providers both within the CNMI and outside of the Commonwealth," she said.

A committee report and House Bill 22-77, HS1 will soon be transmitted to the full House for approval. (PR)

Marianas Pacific and Northern Marianas Technical Institute staff hold the $350 check presented to NMTEch last March 29, 2022.

CORRESPONDENT

The Northern Marianas Technical Institute was the recent beneficiary of two donations: beverage distributor Marianas Pacific donated to the school $350 last March 29 and Triple J Saipan donated $3,000 on April 11.

“On behalf of the NMTEch team, we would like to thank Triple J and MARPAC for their support and contributions to our educational institute. Your generous donations will help NMTEch grow its recruitment efforts in the community by partially funding a student-led, project-based activity to promote the various trades courses that are offered here,” said Jodina Attao, chief executive officer of NMTEch.

That project will consist of the rebuild and customization of a ‘98 Chevy Silverado C2500 that was donated to the institute.

The goal is to give this vehicle a 9.5” suspension lift that will be installed by automotive technology students, add a built-in sliding drawer feature to the truck bed for tools and utensils that will be built by the welding class. These additions will complement the food truck trailer that will be attached and provide for culinary students a food truck that may be used for various activities. This build, Attao said, will entail the assistance and collaborative efforts of other expertise, including electronics installation and electrical wiring.

“Other sponsorships to make this project a reality are always welcome!” said Attao.

Today, April 28, is the last day to register for NMTEch’s construction trade courses.

For more information on their courses offered, visit <https://www.nmtechnmi.org>, contact them at (670) 235-6684, email them at admissions@nmtechnmi.org, or visit them at their location in Lower Base.

Riman Cosmetics hosts top sales reps in the Marianas

Riman Cosmetics of South Korea recently hosted its top sales reps in the Marianas, one of the first Meetings, Incentives, Conferences, and Exhibitions—or MICE—large group tours to the destination since before the pandemic. One hundred top sales reps of the company were on Saipan on April 20-24, 2022.

Marianas Visitors Authority managing director Priscilla M. Iakopo said the group chose the Marianas based on the destination’s strong emphasis on community and guest safety throughout the pandemic and its inter-agency COVID-19 response system, as well the destination’s natural beauty.

“Based on our demonstrated ability to manage and respond to COVID, as originally outlined under our travel bubble agreement with Korea, there is confidence in the Marianas as a destination for even large group tours,” said Iakopo. “The resumption of MICE travel is welcomed, and the MVA is actively negotiated for similar group trips in the coming months.”

The group arrived from Seoul and Busan, Korea, on April 20 and 21 and departed on Sunday, April 24. The MVA welcomed the group at a reception dinner at Pacific Islands Club Saipan, where they lodged during their stay. Hana Tour coordinated the tour. (MVA)

Precinct 5 lawmakers hold 3rd Kagman Trash Drop-off

By IVA MAURIN
CORRESPONDENT

The Precinct 5 community got treated to another free trash drop-off last Saturday, this time at the Banãlu Loop in Kagman III. The service was provided for Kagman residents by the offices of Reps. Richard Lizama (D-Saipan) and Leila Staffler (D-Saipan). “We have huge trash bins for use that will eliminate travel time to the transfer station and will help draw more trash from the house. [Rep.] Staffler and I, this is our third time, and we’re looking forward to have more. We have good participation and good productivity,” Lizama said. The transfer station, located in Lower Base in Tanapag—about a 15-minute drive away from Kagman— is where CNMI’s trash (mostly Saipan’s) are brought and sorted, given its materials recovery facility in place. “We saw trucks and trucks and trucks of people bringing their debris so that they have a sanitary way of living in their homes and taking out all that old stuff that needed to go. We understand that it’s hard for people sometimes,” Staffler said. Three large containers were made available for the residents where they were able to dump typhoon debris, metal debris, old tires and appliances, and household trash.

“We are trying to provide our community with access to ways of keeping their areas clean,” Staffler said. “One day soon, the Kagman area transfer station will be available. But until that day, we need to find different ways to assist our community with getting rid of their trash—until there is a system islandwide, where people have equal access to getting their trash to the dumpsters.”

The trash drop-off is the third that Lizama and Staffler have jointly organized, the first one of which was held in Kannat Tabla last February and the second one in Kagman 2 field in April, last year.

Share your vision for Laolao Bay and Achugao watersheds

By IVA MAURIN
CORRESPONDENT

Get your voice heard and let environmental planners know how you feel about possible developments surrounding two major watersheds on Saipan: the LaoLao Bay and Achugao watersheds.

You can do this by answering a short informal survey, prepared by the Pacific Coastal Research & Planning, to help them draft the management plans for the two watersheds. The areas discussed in the survey are: for LaoLao Bay watershed, “the area extending from the quarry in southern Dandan, through San Vicente up to the inland peaks northwest of Isa Drive, encompassing the Laolao Bay Golf course”; and for Achugao watershed, “the villages of San Roque, Tanapag, and Lower Base, up to the top of Wireless Ridge and peaks north.” The Division of Coastal Resources Management is encouraging everyone, especially “residents that live, work, and play” there, to participate as the plans will serve as a “roadmap to enhancing and/or preserving the natural and built environment in both communities.” To access the survey, visit https://watershed-visions-for-laolao-and-achugao-pcrp.hub.arcgis.com/?fbclid=IwAR0quhNyYoYH_

Widower wonders if age creates boundary for intimacy

DEAR ABBY

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
UNIVERSAL PRESS SYNDICATE

Dear Abby is written by Abigail Van Buren, also known as Jeanne Phillips, and was founded by her mother, Pauline Phillips. Contact Dear Abby at www.DearAbby.com or P.O. Box 69440, Los Angeles, CA 90069.

DEAR ABBY: My wife of 41 years passed away four years ago. I'm in my mid-60s. I have sought grief counseling to fully process her loss. The counselor has encouraged me to maintain and expand my peer relationships. The counselor has also encouraged dating, which I have tried, but no romances have resulted.

My wife was diagnosed with bipolar type 2 mental disorder, which progressed the longer she lived. When she died, I was glad she no longer had to suffer with her mental illness. With the onset of menopause and the bipolar, her libido had dropped dramatically. The counselor has assured me that if romance develops, sexual relations can happen with women my age.

Because of my religious convictions, I will not have sexual relations before marriage. My question concerns a woman's desire for sexual relations at this stage of life. Are sexual relations something that can be mutually enjoyed, or just a requirement of marriage?

WONDERING IN IOWA

DEAR WONDERING: Allow me to put your concerns to rest. Seniors are not clones of each other. Some enjoy sex into their 80s; others do not. If both partners are comfortable with their bodies and willing to accommodate the inevitable changes that come as their bodies age, they can enjoy sex as much as couples who are younger.

While your religious beliefs may not allow you to have sex before marriage, there is no reason why the subject can't be honestly discussed, and this is what I urge you to do if you become involved with someone.

DEAR ABBY: Recently, my daughter asked if her girlfriend could stay with us until the two of them move out in a month. To help them out, my husband and I agreed. The problem is, the girlfriend is very insecure about her weight. She's on the heavier side, and my daughter's weight is average. Sometimes when we're talking about fitness or nutrition, it feels like a sore subject for her. I don't want her to feel uncomfortable around us because I watch what I eat. Advice?

WEIGHTY ISSUE IN WASHINGTON

DEAR WEIGHTY ISSUE: Ask your daughter if mentioning these topics makes her girlfriend uncomfortable. Keep in mind that your houseguest will be staying with you only a few more weeks. Until she leaves, refrain from discussing topics that make her uncomfortable in her presence.

DEAR ABBY: I am 60 and disabled. I desperately would like a dog. I'm not a cat person. I can't get a bird because I have lupus. Working at a shelter isn't an option. I added up all the pluses and minuses, and the minuses were more plentiful. HOWEVER, the pluses are SO tempting.

Logically, I know it would not be fair to either of us. The wiser part of myself says no, but I want someone who is happy when I come home, kisses me, sits on my lap and shares my bed. And someone to care for. Any advice?

NURTURER IN NEW YORK

DEAR NURTURER: Rescue a dog who needs nurturing as much as you do. Adopt an older one from an animal rescue, and you may save two lives at once. That said, it's important you discuss those pluses and minuses with a veterinarian and take out pet insurance — just in case the need arises.

Psychologist hired by Depp testifies about Heard's health

FALLS CHURCH, Va. (AP)—A forensic psychologist testified Tuesday that actor Amber Heard suffers from borderline personality disorder and histrionic personality disorder, as the civil lawsuit between her and ex-husband Johnny Depp continues to wallow in the couple's personal issues.

Depp is suing Heard for libel in Fairfax County Circuit Court after she wrote an op-ed piece in The Washington Post referring to herself as "a public figure representing domestic abuse." The article doesn't mention Depp by name, but his lawyers say the article contains "defamation by implication" because it clearly refers to allegations of domestic abuse made by Heard when she filed for divorce in 2016.

The psychologist, Shannon Curry, was hired by Depp's legal team. She said she reached her diagnosis during 12 hours of interviews with Heard, as well as from reviewing her mental-health records.

Curry also testified that Heard does not suffer from post-traumatic stress disorder from her relationship with Depp, as Heard has claimed.

Depp's team hopes Curry's testimony bolsters their contention that Heard was the aggressor in the couple's troubled relationship. Depp just concluded four days on the witness stand and testified about Heard's "need for conflict" and her tendency to hound and pursue him during arguments when he tried to walk away and disengage.

The two personality disorders are similar, Curry said. Borderline personality is a disease of instability, she said "driven by an underlying fear of abandonment." She said people with the disorder

"will make desperate attempts to prevent that from happening."

Evidence introduced earlier at the trial includes audio clips of Heard begging Depp not to leave, and to stay with her after he indicated a desire to break up or separate.

She also said that borderline personality disorder "seems to be a predictive factor for women who implement violence against their partner." Depp has said he is the one who was a victim of domestic violence, and that Heard hit him on multiple occasions and threw items like paint cans and vodka bottles at him.

Histrionic personality disorder, Curry said, is associated with "drama and shallowness," and a need to be the center of attention.

She said there's a correlation in the disorder with people who are physically attractive and "utilize their looks to get that attention."

On cross-examination, Heard's lawyers questioned Curry for potential bias, noting that she had dinner and drinks with Depp and his lawyers at Depp's house before she was hired. Curry said it was just part of the interview process.

And Heard's lawyers called attention to evidence that Heard reported abuse contemporaneously to her therapist and to the couple's marriage counselor.

While the libel lawsuit is supposed to center on whether Depp was defamed in the article, most of the trial has focused on ugly details of the couple's brief marriage. Depp has denied ever striking Heard. Heard's attorneys say Depp physically and sexually abused her and that Depp's denials lack merit because he was often drunk and high to the point of blacking out.

Kim Kardashian testifies, causes stir at 'Blac Chyna' trial

LOS ANGELES

(AP)—Kim Kardashian testified Tuesday that she had no memory of making any attempt to kill the reality show that starred her brother Rob Kardashian and his then-fiancée Blac Chyna. But she acknowledged demanding that Chyna be kept off of "Keeping Up With the Kardashians" after hearing Chyna had abused her brother.

"I will not go into a toxic work environment," Kardashian said of her refusal to work with Chyna. "On my own show, I have the power to do that."

Kardashian took the stand for an hour in a Los Angeles courtroom in a civil trial in which Chyna alleges that Kardashian and three other members of her family defamed Chyna and convinced producers and the E! network to cancel the spinoff show, "Rob & Chyna."

Kardashian

Her testimony was mostly unremarkable — she spent much of it saying "I don't remember" — but as the biggest star by far to testify in a trial full of stars, she caused a stir when she walked from the gallery to the witness stand wearing a dark gray pinstriped suit with white sneakers. The moment she stepped down, several reporters dashed from the courtroom to file stories.

Chyna's attorney Lynne Ciani showed Kardashian a series of text messages from late 2016 and early 2017 with Kardashian's name attached.

In every case, Kardashian said she had no memory of sending them, though she didn't deny their likely legitimacy.

"I don't remember text messages that I sent this morning," Kardashian said.

In response to viewing one text exchange, a long conversation with a producer from production company Bunim Murray, which produced both shows, Kardashian acknowledged "this definitely sounds like something I would say."

In it, she expressed anger that Chyna might still be filmed for "Keeping Up With the Kardashians," which Chyna occasionally appeared on along with her own show.

"I think we all need to take a break from filming at this point until we figure out what's going on. She is not going to be on our show," the text read. "So if you guys are going to film with Rob and Chyna, and then you are going to lose the Kardashians and Jenners."

The text exchange includes several seemingly damning demands surrounding Chyna being filmed for "her" show, but Kardashian insisted that was a quirk of technology.

"This is clearly voice dictated, as is everything I text that's so long, and it's sometimes rendering 'our' as 'her,'" Kardashian testified. "I would never refer to her show as 'her' show, I would say 'Rob's show' since it's a spin-off of 'Keeping Up With the Kardashians.'"

She added that the recipient, Amanda Weinstein, did not work on "Rob & Chyna."

Actor Reese Witherspoon becomes part-owner of Nashville MLS team

NASHVILLE, Tenn.

(AP)—Actor Reese Witherspoon and Tennessee Titans running back Derrick Henry have joined the ownership group of Major League Soccer's Nashville team ahead of the opening Sunday of Geodis Park, its 30,000-seat stadium.

Witherspoon's husband, agent and investor Jim Toth, also has joined the ownership group, the team said Tuesday.

The soccer team started play in 2020 at Nissan Stadium, home of the Titans, and played its first eight league games on the road this season before it opens the new venue with a game against Philadelphia.

Witherspoon grew up in the

Witherspoon

Nashville area.

"As a Tennessee native, it is thrilling to see how much growth and development has come to our home state," she said in a statement. "The opportunity to go as a family and watch a world-class team compete has been such an incredible experience."

Henry has been with the Titans since 2016. He joins Mark Ingram (D.C.), Patrick Mahomes (Kansas City) and Russell Wilson (Seattle) as NFL players who have become MLS part owners.

Actors who are owners include Drew Carey (Seattle), Matthew McConaughey (Austin) and Will Ferrell (Los Angeles FC).

Heat hold off Hawks 97-94, reach Eastern semifinals

MIAMI (AP)—If one play could tell the story of a five-game series, consider this one: Trae Young's final shot from the field was a corner 3-point try that he rushed because he knew a defender was coming his way.

The shot bounced off the side of the backboard.

Take a bow, Miami. Even without Kyle Lowry and Jimmy Butler, defense carried the day—and carried the Heat into the Eastern Conference semifinals.

Victor Oladipo scored 23 points, Bam Adebayo added 20 points and 11 rebounds, and the Heat moved into Round 2 of the playoffs by eliminating Young and the Atlanta Hawks 97-94 on Tuesday night.

"The biggest thing about this game was our defense," Adebayo said.

That was, and is, Miami's plan. The Heat swarmed Young from the start of Game 1 to the end of Game 5, holding Atlanta's high-octane scorer to a 15.4-point average in the series on 32% shooting. Young had as many assists as he had turnovers — 30 of each.

"They're a good defensive team," Young said. "Their team is more of a system than who they have on their team. No matter who they have out there, they can play. ... And when they've got a guy that they're targeting and trying to take away, they do a really good job of doing that."

Tyler Herro scored 16, Max Strus scored 15 and Caleb Martin added 10 for the top-seeded Heat, who got the clincher with Butler and Lowry sitting out with injuries.

Young went 2 for 12 from the floor, scoring just 11 points. De'Andre Hunter scored 35 for Atlanta, which got 12 apiece from Kevin Huerter and Danilo Gallinari.

"Obviously, I didn't shoot the ball well," Young said.

Hunter fouled out with 41.6 seconds left, Miami clinging to a three-point lead at the time. The Hawks got a stop, taking over with 29.2 seconds remaining, and retained possession after a missed shot from Gallinari went out of bounds off Miami.

The Hawks never got another shot off, time expired and Miami moved on.

"They are a hell of a team," Hawks coach Nate McMillan said. "Those guys compete every second that they're out on the floor and I have a great deal of respect for how they play."

Onyeka Okongwu's three-point play got Atlanta within Miami Heat guard Victor Oladipo (4) drives to the basket against Atlanta Hawks forward John Collins (20) during the first half of Game 5 of an NBA basketball first-round playoff series, Tuesday, April 26, 2022, in Miami.

79-76 early in the fourth, the Hawks clawing back after being down by as many as 15.

But Herro hit a high-arching jumper from the lane, Miami got a stop, and Oladipo hit a left-wing 3 on the next Heat possession to push the lead back to eight with 7:29 remaining. That's how the final minutes went: Atlanta made a charge, Miami would hold it off, all the way to the end.

And now, the Heat get nearly a week off before facing either Philadelphia or Toronto in the East semis. Game 1 will be Monday in Miami.

"We're all committed to the same goal," Strus said.

The Heat already knew they'd be without Lowry, who missed his second consecutive game with a strained left hamstring. The surprise was Butler, who reported knee soreness to the team on Monday and didn't see enough improvement to play on Tuesday.

But Butler and Lowry spent the final few minutes of the first half particularly enjoying what was happening.

A 17-0 Miami run — including 10 in a row from Strus in a span of 67 seconds — turned a three-point deficit into a 54-40 lead late in the second quarter. Miami pushed the lead out to 67-52 on a score by Adebayo with 2:55 left in the third, and the lead was 75-64 going into the fourth.

Atlanta had one last charge to make, getting within two in the final moments — but no closer. Gallinari's last inbounds pass went to nobody, and the clock ran out.

"I thought it was fitting that we had to get this game with a stop at the end," Heat coach Erik Spoelstra said.

Grizzlies 111, Timberwolves 109

In Memphis, Tenn. first, Ja Morant gave the Memphis Grizzlies and their fans a much-needed energy boost by flying through the air for a big dunk at the end of the third quarter.

Then the All-Star guard took over the game's final two minutes.

Morant scored the last 13 points for Memphis, and his layup with a second left capped the Grizzlies' big rally from 11 points down in the fourth quarter to edge the Minnesota Timberwolves 111-109 on Tuesday night and grab a 3-2 lead in their first-round Western Conference series.

"Go get a bucket. Ja," Morant said of the game-winning play.

Morant, named the NBA's most improved player on Monday, struggled mightily much of the game. But he turned it on in the fourth quarter, scoring 18 points — including 9 of 10 at the free-throw line. His lone 3 of the game came with 1:03 left, giving Memphis its first lead since the first quarter.

"Obviously, he had a brilliant fourth quarter," Memphis coach Taylor Jenkins said.

The Grizzlies point guard came from the low post as the Grizzlies inbounded the ball with 3.7 seconds left and lost Anthony Edwards at the top of the key. That left him an open lane into the paint he's so rarely had in this series, beating Jarred Vanderbilt with his left hand on an underhanded layup.

Edwards said he wanted to try to steal the ball.

"Dumb mistake," Edwards said.

Morant finished with 30 and had 13 rebounds and nine assists. Desmond Bane added 25 points, and Brandon Clarke had 21 off the bench for Memphis, and Jaren Jackson Jr. added 12 before fouling out.

Karl-Anthony Towns led the Timberwolves with 28 points and 12 rebounds. Anthony Edwards had 22, and D'Angelo Russell added 12 and Taurean Prince 10.

Game 6 is Friday night back in Minnesota with the Wolves now trying to force a seventh game Sunday back in Memphis.

"It's a tough pill to swallow," Towns said. "You feel like you got it after all the mistakes made and everything like that. We hit a big 3 to tie the game up with 4 seconds (left). You feel good. You feel good about going into overtime and having a chance to win the game. Just a learning experience."

The Timberwolves led 99-88 with 6:58 left after three free throws by Towns, and Jackson fouling out for a second straight game. The Grizzlies responded with a 10-0 run to set up a thrilling finish to what had been an ugly, poor-shooting game, and outscored Minnesota 37-24 in the fourth.

Edwards tied it up at 109 for Minnesota with a 3 with 3.7 seconds left. That set up Morant for the final drive to the basket for the game-winner to start the celebration.

Clarke said he told Morant during the hug he thanked God the Grizzlies have him on their team.

"Thank God that you're as good as you are because we had just fought so hard," Clarke said. "And hit a really tough 3. And I was just like, it's fine, though, because we got 12 and we got a player that can make a really, really big-time finish. And I was like, 'Yeah, thank God that we got you, man.'"

Jenkins was fined $15,000 Monday for criticizing the officiating after Game 4, a 119-118 win by Minnesota. On Tuesday, his Grizzlies got to the free-throw line more than Minnesota — they just didn't shoot well once there, making 26 of 39 compared to Minnesota's 21 of 24.

The Grizzlies opened the game on a 13-2 run and looked liked the team that earned the highest seed in franchise history.

Then Jackson got his second foul on Patrick Beverley's 3 and went to the bench. The Timberwolves, the NBA's best 3-point shooting team in the regular season, started knocking down shots, going 7 of 11 outside the arc and leading 31-28 at the end of the first quarter.

Minnesota was up 55-53 at halftime, then outscored Memphis 30-21 in the third. But Morant capped the quarter with a windmill dunk that helped give the Grizzlies some much-needed energy.

Suns 112, Pelicans 97

In Phoenix, Mikal Bridges scored 31 points in a stellar all-around game, Chris Paul added 22 points and 11 assists and the top-seeded Phoenix Suns beat the New Orleans Pelicans 112-97 on Tuesday night to take a 3-2 lead in the Western Conference first-round series.

The Suns never trailed but also never totally pulled away until the final few minutes against the feisty Pelicans. Once again, Phoenix found a way to close, improving to 50-0 this season when leading after three quarters, including 3-0 in this series.

Bridges closed the Suns' scoring with two emphatic dunks in the final minute, capping arguably the best game of his pro career.

Brandon Ingram scored 22 points to lead the Pelicans. CJ McCollum added 21.

The Suns took an 89-78 lead into the final quarter after Cameron Payne's late 3-pointer. The Pelicans — just 36-46 during the regular season — pulled within seven points with less than two minutes left, but Cameron Johnson threw down a one-handed jam on the ensuing fast break to keep the Suns in control.

Phoenix will try to clinch the series in Game 6 on Thursday in New Orleans. If the first five games are any indication, it will not be easy.

Paul bounced back from a subpar Game 4 and Bridges showed why he was one of three finalists for the league's defensive player of the year, blocking four shots.

It was also an ironman performance for Bridges, who played 47 of a possible 48 minutes yet never looked tired. He made 12 of 17 shots from the field, grabbed five rebounds and had two steals.

Phoenix played its third straight game without All-Star guard Devin Booker, who was still out with a strained right hamstring that happened in Game 2.

The Suns jumped out to a 2-20 lead by the end of the first quarter. They looked much more like the team that led the NBA with 64 wins during the regular season, playing tight defense and making the extra pass on offense to get open shots.

Phoenix led by as many as 17 during the second quarter before settling for a 59-46 advantage. Paul had 16 points before the break while Ayton added 13. Ingram had 13 for the Pelicans.

Rizzo's 3 HRs, Judge's B-day bash lift Yanks over O's, 12-8

NEW YORK (AP)—After 9 ½ seasons at Wrigley Field, Anthony Rizzo is finding his new confines plenty friendly.

"I think he likes Yankee Stadium," New York manager Aaron Boone said. "After tonight, I think it sealed it."

Rizzo lofted a trio of homers into Yankee Stadium's short right-field porch, Aaron Judge connected on his birthday and Joey Gallo ended the longest home-run drought of his career as New York outslugged the Baltimore Orioles 12-8 Tuesday night.

Gleyber Torres tacked on a bases-loaded triple in the seventh, and the previously slumping Yankees followed Sunday's 10-run outburst against Cleveland with another barrage, helping them win for the sixth time in seven games.

"Double digits, it's great to see," Boone said. "I think guys are just getting settled more."

Rizzo floated his sixth, seventh and eighth homers for six RBIs, Judge joined Lou Gehrig and Jerry Mumphrey as Yankees to homer on their 30th birthdays and Gallo connected for the first time in 23 games, a slump dating to last season.

Rizzo's homers averaged 350 feet, the shortest average distance in a three-homer game since Statcast began tracking in 2015, per MLB.

"He's got huge power he can pull to all fields," Orioles manager Brandon Hyde said. "He's smart. He took advantage of (the ballpark), all three pull-side homers here."

Boone said he thought the famously short right field at Yankee Stadium fit Rizzo's game well. Rizzo said he's not considering it into his approach.

"I'm not worried about what park we're playing in," he said. "I just try to have my at-bat. I think that just comes with experience in the big leagues."

Luis Severino (2-0) pitched a no-hitter into the sixth inning for New York before Jorge Mateo's one-out single, and Anthony Santander followed a few batters later with a three-run homer that set off a homer-filled finish.

Austin Hays added a three-run drive against Jonathan Loaisiga for the pesky Orioles, who scored four runs against a bullpen with a 2.44 ERA entering Tuesday.

"It was important tonight we continue to add on," Boone said. "And it was good to see the offense support the pitching."

Rizzo hit a three-run shot in the third that just reached the first row in right field, added a two-run drive in the fifth and capped it off with a bizarre solo homer in the eighth.

The left-handed hitter stood near home plate and watched his high fly arc down the right-field line, certain it would end up foul. The ball curved back toward play and landed right atop the 314-foot sign, just inside the foul pole.

"I was kind of just shocked," Rizzo said.

He gave the dugout a puzzled look before starting his trot, then took a curtain call for fans after a replay review upheld the first three-homer game of his career.

"Took me a long time in Chicago to get one, to be honest with you," the former Cubs star said. "It was actually a joke there amongst teammates. Listen, it's a game I'll never forget."

Gallo ended his drought with a solo drive off Jordan Lyles (1-2) in the fourth. Teammates gave him the silent treatment in the dugout before breaking out big grins and hugs for the 28-year-old slugger. Gallo went long 38 times last season, including 13 after a midseason trade to New York.

Brewers 12, Pirates 8

In Pittsburgh, Willy Adames homered twice and drove in a career-high seven runs, and Milwaukee beat Pittsburgh.

Adames hit a two-run blast in the first inning and a three-run drive during a six-run sixth for the NL Central-leading Brewers. It was the first multi-homer game of his career. He added a two-run double in the fifth and finished 4 for 5, raising his batting average 45 points to .239.

The game was tied 4-4 in the sixth when Rowdy Tellez singled with one out off reliever Aaron Fletcher (0-1). Tyrone Taylor followed with a triple and came home on a single by Omar Naváez. Adames' drive later in the inning made it 10-4.

Brent Suter (1-0) allowed Kevin Newman's game-tying two-run single in the fifth in relief of starter Brandon Woodruff. Josh Hader entered with two on and two out in the ninth and struck out Tucupita Marcano for his ninth save, which leads the majors.

Twins 5, Tigers 4

In Minneapolis, Detroit catcher Eric Haase made a throwing error on a botched rundown, capping a chaotic play that gave Minnesota two runs and a wild victory over Detroit.

Miguel Sanó had the final hit for the Twins — and his ill-advised baserunning after a long single off Detroit closer Gregory Soto (1-1) wound up helping them win their fifth in a row.

Javier Báez gave the Tigers the lead with a three-run homer in the eighth against Emilio Pagán. Báez also hit a two-out RBI double in the sixth to chase Chris Paddack, the only run allowed by the Twins starter.

Griffin Jax (1-0) pitched the ninth for Minnesota.

Angels 4, Guardians 1

In Anaheim, Calif., Mike Trout homered and drove in three runs, and Patrick Sandoval pitched seven innings of two-hit ball as surging Los Angeles beat Cleveland for its third straight win.

Trout drove a slider from Triston McKenzie (0-2) into the bullpens in left field for a two-run shot in the third inning to give the Angels a 3-0 lead.

Sandoval (1-0) struck out nine and has not allowed an earned run in three starts this season.

Raisel Iglesias struck out Franmil Reyes and Miller for his fourth save.

Padres 9, Reds 6

In Cincinnati, Eric Hosmer hit his first homer of the season and Jake Cronenworth added a bases-loaded triple during an eight-run fourth inning that sent San Diego past struggling Cincinnati.

The Reds, who snapped an 11-game losing streak on Sunday, own baseball's worst record at 3-14.

Joe Musgrove (3-0) allowed two earned runs through six innings. He beat the Reds for the second time this season.

In the fourth, Reds starter Reiver Sanmartin (0-3) gave up seven straight hits, including Hosmer's three-run homer.

Mets 3, Cardinals 0

In St. Louis, Chris Bassitt pitched six strong innings, and

New York beat St. Louis for its franchise-best sixth straight series win to start a season.

Bassitt (3-1) struck out six batters and allowed two hits and two walks. Edwin Díaz pitched a scoreless ninth for his third save in four opportunities.

James McCann had an RBI double for the Mets, who were plunked three times by Cardinals pitchers.

CJordan Hicks (1-2) allowed two runs before being pulled in the top of the third inning. He was struck on the right wrist by a line drive in the second.

Braves 3, Cubs 1

In Atlanta, Travis Demeritte hit his first big league homer in nearly three years and made an impressive catch to back another strong outing by Max Fried, giving Atlanta a much-needed win over Chicago.

The World Series champions won for only the third time in their last eight games. The Cubs have lost six of seven.

Fried (2-2) pitched four-hit ball over six innings.

Demeritte broke a tie in the fifth with an opposite-field liner into the Chop House restaurant in right field off Marcus Stroman (0-3).

Giants 8, Athletics 2

In San Francisco, Carlos Rodón had nine strikeouts in six sharp innings and San Francisco beat Oakland.

Wilmer Flores homered and drove in four runs, and Austin Slater also connected for the Giants.

Rodón (3-0) allowed three hits and one run, which raised his ERA from 1.06 to 1.17.

Daulton Jefferies (1-3) allowed five runs and four hits in four innings.

Blue Jays 6, Red Sox 5, 10 innings

In Toronto, George Springer hit a two-run homer to force extra innings, Raimel Taipa hit a game-ending sacrifice fly in the 10th, and Toronto handed slumping Boston its fourth straight loss.

Tapia hit a flyball to left on the ninth pitch of his at-bat against Matt Barnes (0-1), scoring automatic runner Bo Bichette.

Springer tied it with two outs in the ninth with his homer off Jake Diekman.

Blue Jays closer Jordan Romano (1-1) escaped a jam in the top of the 10th.

Royals 6, White Sox 0

In Chicago, Daniel Lynch pitched six crisp innings and Kansas City handed Chicago its eighth straight loss.

Bobby Witt Jr. had two hits and Carlos Santana drove in two runs, helping Kansas City stop a four-game slide.

Lynch (2-1) allowed two hits, struck out seven and walked two.

Dallas Keuchel (1-2) worked four innings in his second straight loss, allowing two unearned runs and two hits.

Diamondbacks 5, Dodgers 3

In Phoenix, David Peralta hit a tiebreaking home run in the eighth inning and also started one of Arizona's five double plays in a win over Los Angeles.

Arizona had more double plays than hits. Peralta doubled early, and his late, two-run homer was its fourth and final hit.

Ian Kennedy (1-1) got Will Smith to ground into a bases-loaded double play to end the eighth. Mark Melancon worked a perfect ninth for his third save.

Peralta's second homer came against Brusdar Graterol (0-1).

Rangers 5, Astros 1

In Arlington, Texas, Jake Odorizzi allowed one hit over six innings to end a long winless drought, and a rejuvenated Kyle Tucker homered and drove in three runs to power Houston past Texas.

Odorizzi (1-2) permitted just two baserunners and won for the first time in 10 starts since last August.

The lone hit off Odorizzi was a home run by Adolis Garcia in the second. The right-hander threw only 78 pitches.

The Astros took a 4-1 lead in the fourth against starter Taylor Hearn (0-2).

Mariners 8, Rays 4

In St. Petersburg, Fla., Logan Gilbert pitched 5 2/3 shutout innings, Adam Frazier hit a three-run double and Seattle beat Tampa Bay.

Frazier's double off Josh Fleming (2-2) came during a seven-run fourth inning for the Mariners that was made possible by back-to-back errors from shortstop Wander Franco and first baseman Ji-Man Choi.

Gilbert (3-0) gave up two hits and three walks while striking out seven. The 24-year-old right-hander has given up one earned run in four starts.

The Mariners have won four straight and 9 of 11.

Phillies 10, Rockies 3

In Philadelphia, Odubel Herrera homered, doubled and drove in three runs, Zach Eflin pitched six strong innings and Philadelphia again took advantage of some shaky Colorado defense.

Charlie Blackmon hit two solo homers for Colorado.

Eflin (1-1) allowed only C.J. Cron's single leading off the second and Blackmon's one-out homer to right field in the sixth. The right-hander struck out three and walked one.

The Phillies scored three unearned runs in the third against German Marquez (0-1).

Marlins 5, Nationals 2

In Washington, outfielders Jesús Sánchez and Avisail García each threw out a runner at the plate in the fourth inning, Joey Wendle hit his first homer and Miami beat reeling Washington.

Sandy Alcantara (2-0) extended his shutout streak to 17 innings over his past three starts for the Marlins and ended up giving up one run and six hits over six innings, aided by some bungling on the basepaths by the hosts.

Josiah Gray (2-2) allowed four runs in 5 2/3 innings for the Nationals, who lost their sixth straight.

Francisco M. Sablan Middle School and Marianas High School-1 were crowned champions of the 2021-2022 season of the NMIFA-PSS Interscholastic Soccer League after outclassing their respective opponents last weekend at the NMI Soccer Training Center in Koblerville.

In the girls middle school division, the FMS Napu Riders cruised past Saipan International School, 3-0, to clinch the season title and finish the competition unbeaten.

Rosie Saralu starred in FMS' finals win after scoring all three goals in the match. She ended up recording 12 goals this season to earn both the Golden Boot and Finals MVP awards. Saralu and company defeated SIS and Saipan Community School in Group A of pool play to reach the semis where the Napu Riders pounced in on Chacha Oceanview Middle School last Friday, 9-1, for a finals berth at the top half of the draw. Saralu fired six goals in the semis victory, while Brienne Echalico added two.

In the other Final Four pairing, SIS, which had a 1-0-1 win-draw-loss record in Group B of pool play, stunned Hopwood Middle School, 3-0, to move into the title match. Julie Chavez, Phoenix Gross, and Lya Kim scored for the Geckos.

Meanwhile, in the girls high school finals, MHS-1 dominated Saipan Southern High School, 4-1, to also complete the season with a perfect record.

The Lady Dolphins swept their three opponents in Group A of pool play to march into the semis. They were then paired against Mt. Carmel School in last Friday's Final Four and won, 3-0, to move one victory away from securing the division finals. MHS-1 went on to triumph in the championship game behind the goals of Allyssya Angeles, Tamia Hix, Amaya Reyes, and Jannah Casarino.

Angeles was later named Finals MVP, while Saipan Southern's Summer Manahane took the Golden Boot award after recording nine goals in five games, including the Manta Rays' lone goal in the finals.

Saipan Southern finished second behind MHS-1 in pool play in Group A and reached the finals after eliminating SIS last Friday, 4-1. Manahane tallied two goals in the Manta Rays' semis win over the Lady Geckos, while Neriah Lumbad and Sophia Quintos chipped in one apiece.

ementary School.

Toves said he had no inkling their team would ultimately win the NMSA Team of the Year award since there were a lot of teams vying for the yearly honor.

"I never believed we had a chance until I heard that my team was named the team of the year. I was just really shocked that we won that award. I'm dedicating this to my family and my friends who supported me and cheered me on throughout that volleyball tournament. My school also for coming down to watch us win and cheering for us every game. I also want to dedicate this to my team for working hard each day of practice and in games also and also to our coach, Randy Steele, who coached us and for making me a better player each game," he said.

For Richard Steele, taking home the coveted honor was also a pleasant surprise for him.

"I was thinking that there were other teams who deserved to win the award, so hearing our school and names get called up definitely caught me by surprise. I would like to dedicate this award to our school and my dad. Mount Carmel School is like a second family to me. As a high school athlete, you dream of winning the championship title for your school."

On second thought, Steele said completing an undefeated season doesn't come every day so on that regard, they also deserved the award.

"It feels right to give this team of the year trophy to our school. I would also like to dedicate this award to my dad, who was also our coach. He pushed every single one of us and taught us how to be better players, so without him this award wouldn't be possible. This award especially means a lot to me. I've won athlete of the month a few times, but I've never won athlete of the year. I've always wanted to win that awesome, giant latte stone trophy, so finally being able to win this, and win it with this team, puts a huge smile on my face," he said.

Diaz said while there's a possibility they'd take home team of the year, he was still surprised when their team was called on stage to accept the award.

"We knew we had a chance, but to actually win it? That was a surprise. All the other teams were amazing and are great at what they do, so congratulations to them as well. I'd say I dedicate the award to our school and most especially our coach. Without the school's support at every game and coach Randy's training and guidance, we wouldn't have done as great as we did in the tournament. Our win is their win as well...Winning team of the year has to be one of our greatest accomplishments, both as a team and individually, but it doesn't stop us from achieving even more," he said.

Like his teammates, Kim said winning the award also came out of left field for him.

"Frankly, I didn't expect this award. Our team and I were stunned when we were called as the team of the year. Team of the month was enough for me, but the team of the year made our team and me even happier. Surprise gifts always make them memorable and meaningful."

He thanked MCS for giving them the opportunity to excel not only in sports but also in academics.

"I appreciate our school, MCS, for providing various fields and funs. I also want to give this big thanks to whoever supported us under the hot weather. Without their support and encouragement, we couldn't win, and of course, we wouldn't even think of these significant awards...Frankly, I didn't have a significant role in our team. I was mainly on the bench shouting my words to my team with hope, earnestness, and courage. I believe the team is a word that combines pros and cons, and Merrick, Sam, Brandon, Jboy, Richard, and I threw out our greed (avarice) and played with our hearts."

Lee said he also didn't expect them to win team of the year and wants to dedicate the award to the school. However, if he were to choose one player deserving of the team MVP, it would be Toves.

"This award is the start to my journey in volleyball and it humbled me to do better. I realized I couldn't do this and get such an award without a great team like this."

Ryu reinforced his teammates' surprise of winning the team of the year by saying he was in utter shock when he heard their names and MCS announced as the winners.

"To be honest, I didn't expect to receive the award for team of the year; although I was hoping to receive this meaningful award. I am dedicating this to my school. I am proud to represent my school and to win the team of the year...This award means a lot to us. This showed everyone that we worked as a team and as a family either we win or lose. Because we had the best teamwork, we gave our best for us to win."

Mount Carmel High School's Boys Beach Volleyball Team beat out SIS Cares for Animals (March), Napu Outrigger Canoe Club women's team (April), Marianas Outrigger Canoe Club (May), Shirley's Badminton Club (June), TanHoldings FC (July), Southern United FC (August), and Team Santa (December) for the NMSA Team of the Year award.

A team of boys who have been playing together since their elementary years was hailed NMSA Team of the Year during the 2021 NMSA Annual Sports Banquet held last April 19 at the Kensington Hall of Kensington Hotel Saipan.

Mount Carmel High School's Boys Beach Volleyball Team, which is composed of Richard Steele, Merrick Toves, Jeremiah Diaz, Brandon Lee, Jun Beom Kim, and Sam (Ji Hwan) Ryu, got the nod after going 9-0 in pool play and did not lose a set in the double-elimination 2021 PSS Boys High School 4V4 Beach Volleyball Tournament en route to the championship last February.

The team's only loss was the first set against Grace Christian Academy in the best 2-out-of-3 championship match. In nominating the team for the monthly plum last February, the Northern Mariana Islands Volleyball Association said Toves, Steele, Diaz, Lee, Kim, and Ryu have been excelling together in school team sports since they were in MCS El-Cuki Alvarez returned to the winners circle of the 2022 Monster Energy Point Series Race after topping the Expert Class of the Marianas Racing Association race last Sunday at the Cowtown Race Track.

The 51-year-old boat captain won both heats for a perfect 50 points. His son, Shane, came in second in both heats for 44 points, while last month's winner, Ellery Cruz, finished third both times for 36 points.

"I'm dedicating this victory to all the motocross enthusiasts out there and to all the kids, and young adults as well, even the older folks! Even at 51, I still enjoy the sport of motocross and I remain very competitive even among the young guys."

He added that he's living proof that despite what critics say, the sport of motocross is not as dangerous as they think.

"It just goes to show that motocross makes you feel so alive and despite what a lot of people think and say, that it's 'so dangerous,' it is actually quite safer than you'd imagine. As long as you ride smart and practice often, and

He went on to encourage all who are interested in trying motocross out to join the MRA.

"We are like family and although we compete fiercely on race days, we all have a great time before, during, and after each race," he said.

In the Veterans Class, Champi Villacanes edged Dave Celis after winning the second heat. Both got 45 points with Alvarez encountering mechanical issues and limped to third with 44 points.
